The federal government authorized the McKinney-Vento Act in 2001 as part of No Child Left Behind legislation. Under the McKinney-Vento Act school districts must ensure that homeless children have equal access to the same public education, including public preschool education, as it is provided to other children and youth in the district. Under the Act, "homeless children and youth mean individuals who lack a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence. The term includes children and youth who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or similar reasons; are living in motels, hotels, trailer parks, or camping grounds due to the lack of alternative adequate accommodations; are living in emergency or transitional shelters; are abandoned in hospitals; or are awaiting foster care placement" (Federal Register, march 2002, Volume 67, Number 46). Upon school registration all families will be required to answer questions to identify children who are protected under the McKinney-Vento Act.
